‘Long in silence they watched the receding sail of the vessel,
Much endeared to them all, as something living and human;
Then, as if filled with the Spirit, and wrapt in a vision prophetic,
Baring his hoary head, the excellent Elder of Plymouth
Said, ‘Let us pray!’ and they prayed, and thanked the Lord and took courage,

688 Doctor JOHN MILTON^8 BREWSTER (Oliver^7, Wadsworth^6, Oliver^5, William^4, William^3, Love^2, William^1), married at Becket, Mass., July 5, 1813, PHILENA, daughter of Joseph and Azubah (Gillet) HIGLEY of Becket, born there, November 6, 1787; died at Pittsfield, Mass., January 21, 1875. He died at Pittsfield, May 3, 1869.

"Doctor John M. Brewster's early education was received at Lenox (Mass.) Academy. . . . He commenced the study of medicine under his father's instruction; attended a course of lectures in New Haven, in 1810, and graduated at the Medical School in Boston, in 1812; reached home the very day his father was brought home dead of apoplexy, and commenced immediately the practice of medicine at his native place, where he remained until 1821, when he removed to Lenox, and was a successful physician in that and neighboring towns for sixteen years. He was town clerk there for two years. In April, 1837, he removed to Pittsfield, and continued his profession with zeal, fidelity, and success for thirty years, making in all fifty-five years of continuous practice. His physical constitution was of the most robust kind. Till after he was seventy years of age he would mount his horse with no other help than the stirrups and ride with grace and fleetness.

"Dr. Brewster welcomed to his home Gerritt Smith, Elihu Burritt, Henry Wilson, and many of the early anti-slavery advocates. The friendship that existed between himself and the honorable Charles Sumner (of glorious memory) was constant and unabated to the close of life. He was an anti-slavery man when it cost something to be one—as far back as when James G. Birney was a candidate for President. Studious of social propriety and civil obligations he firmly and conscientiously took his chances on the side of manhood and right, and calmly and quietly awaited the result.

"Need it be said that his grand conduct as husband, father, neighbor, citizen, and physician was the outcome of a character which was born of Jesus of Nazareth."

Dr. Brewster was twice a candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, but was not elected.

The illustration opposite was the home of Dr. John M. Brewster at Pittsfield, bought by him of General Nathan Willis, in 1837, and it remained in that family until sold, in 1882. The next year the house was demolished. It was built previous to 1799, and had the credit of having been a station of the underground railroad for fugitives from the South on their way to Canada.

field, Sept. 12, 1866; m. there, Jan. 27, 1841, Clarissa Augusta, dau. of Jonathan and Clarissa (Arms) Allen of Pittsfield, b. there, May 18, 1816. "His early education was received in Lenox, his collegiate in Williams College (grad. 1837), and his medical studies were under his father, and at Berkshire Medical College, where he graduated in 1839, and commenced practice in Pittsfield. In 1862 he was commissioned as surgeon of the 40th Mass. Regiment. He was fearless, and in the Army he was neither afraid to utter his convictions, nor defend them. When at Morris Island, S. C., he was attacked with chronic diarrhea, and it necessitated his leaving the Army, Oct. 3, 1863. As soon as he was able, he resumed his practice in Pittsfield. He was at the time of his death president of the Berkshire Medical College." Chn., b. at Pittsfield:

770 Reverend TIMOTHY DWIGHT[8] HUNT (Huldah[7] Brewster, Ichabod[6], Ichabod[5], William[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at Newark, N. J., November 1, 1843, MARY, daughter of Nathan HEDGES of Newark. She died at Waterville, N. Y., in 1861. Married second, in 1862, MARY E. PRESTON of Waterville, who died in 1863. Married third, at Marshall, Mich., August 11, 1864, SARAH O., daughter of Ira and Eliza NASH of Marshall. He died at Whitesboro, N. Y., February 7, 1895.

Timothy Dwight Hunt was graudated from Yale College in 1840, and Auburn Theological Seminary in 1843, and December 4, of the same year, he and his wife sailed for the Sandwich Islands, where he became a missionary. Owing to heavy storms, they were 225 days on the voyage. He remained in Hawaii about a year, when he accepted a professorship in the national school at Lahainaluna. Two years later he was called to Honolulu, and was there three months, when gold was discovered in California. A most deplorable state of society and morals then existed in the latter place, and at the urgent request of many, Mr. Hunt went to San Francisco, where he was cordially received by the representative men, and at a public meeting was declared the chaplain of the town. Mr. Hunt was the first Protestant minister in California. His congregation (Presbyterian) at San Francisco worshiped in the schoolhouse until 1849, when a church edifice was erected. He was made moderator of the first Presbytery, and was superintendent of the Presbyterian and Congregational missions in California. " He was recognized as the pioneer and one of the most potent factors in the promotion of the cause of religion in the early days of the Pacific slope."

In 1858 Mr. Hunt and his family returned East, when he accepted a pastorate at Ithaca, N. Y., thence he went to Waterville, N. Y., Niles, Mich., Nunda, N. Y., Sodus, N. Y., Fenton, Mich., and Westernville, and after spending fifty-one years in active ministerial work retired and settled at Whitesboro, N. Y. "During his long service as a pastor, he was faithful and efficient in the discharge of all the duties that devolved upon him." He was the author of Past and Present of the Sandwich Islands, the first bound book issued in California.

She died at Cincinnati, December 5, 1879.

They resided at Cincinnati.

John G. Jones attended the Cincinnati College and Law School, and was admitted to the bar, but retired from legal practice some years previous to his decease. While he was attending college, Elizabeth Brewster was a pupil in Mrs. Ryland's School for Young Ladies at Cincinnati, and at that time a friendship was formed which resulted in their early marriage.

To an attractive personality Mrs. Elizabeth Brewster Jones combined a character of rare loveliness. She possessed a very gentle, affectionate, generous and open hearted nature, and by her charitable deeds gained the love and respect of many. She was a devout Christian, taking an interest in all affairs connected with the welfare of her church. In a well-regulated home she gathered about her a large circle of friends, who appreciated her sterling traits of character. She was a loving wife and fond mother, whose good influence was felt by all with whom she came in contact.

It was her earnest desire that a history of the Brewster family might be published.

He started his career in the New York Tribune office as advertising clerk, remaining there until April, 1870. when he went to Colorado with the Greeley Colony, which assisted in laying out the town of Greeley. After remaining two years he returned to the Tribune office, where he worked until 1877, when he went to California. There he was employed by the Market Street Railway Company until Feb. 16, 1878, when he entered the army, enlisting in Battery H of the 4th U. S. Artillery, and was honorably discharged at Fort Warren, Mass., Feb. 15, 1883, as sergeant major. While in the army he held several responsible positions, being at one time in charge of recruits and casuals at the Presidio of San Francisco; was in charge of a scouting party in eastern Oregon during the Bannock Indian Campaign of 1878. and participated in the Apache Campaign of 1881. From Dec. 1, 1881, to July 1, 1882, he was post sergeant major at Madison Barracks, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y. While stationed there he made application for a commission in the army and passed a very creditable examination, but was rejected on account of being over thirty years of age. After leaving the army he taught military science and tactics a year in St. Paul's Cathedral School at Garden City, Long Island. Mr. McAllister again returned to the Tribune office and remained until 1886, when he went to Lincoln, Neb., where he began his railroad career as brakesman on a B. & M. freight train. In the same year he went to Atchison as clerk in the freight office of the B. & M., and during the next five years passed through various positions. In May, 1891, he was sent to Salt Lake City, Utah, as contracting agent of the Burlington Route, and in February, 1892, he was promoted to the same position in Denver, Colo. In June, 1892, he resigned his position with the Burlington to accept the same position with the Southern Pacific Company, and March 1, 1895, was appointed as general agent in Denver for that company, which position he now holds.

Wm. K. McAllister

801 CHAUNCEY EDWARDS[8] WETMORE (Chauncey[7] Wetmore, Sarah[6] Brewster, Elisha[5], William[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at Wethersfield, Conn., October 8, 1845, MARY MIX, daughter of Dean BUCK of Wethersfield, born there, in 1818; died at Clayton, Cal., July 10, 1894. He died at Clayton, September 29, 1894.

Chauncey E. Wetmore attended Middletown (Conn.) Academy, took a collegiate course and attended lectures in New York City. He then taught school in Herkimer County, N. Y., was principal of the public school at Middletown and at Wethersfield, Conn., then spent six months in the Teachers' Academy at Andover, became a tutor in Mt. Hope College, Baltimore, Md., and later opened and conducted a private school in that city, but his health failing he sold the school and engaged in mercantile pursuits.

On Dec. 22, 1847, Mr. Wetmore, his wife and brother Henry sailed for California, and after stopping at Valparaïso, Callao, and other points of South America, and at Honolulu, S. I., they arrived at San Francisco, Aug. 27, 1848. Here he was a merchant until April 3, 1849, when he and his family settled at Benicia, Cal., where he formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, Samuel C. Gray, who had brought a large consignment of goods from Baltimore and New York, and Mr. Wetmore continued in Benicia until Nov. 22, 1853. During his residence there he was active in founding Benicia Female Seminary and building the first Presbyterian Church, and was a trustee and superintendent of public schools. From Nov., 1854, to Aug., 1857, he was a merchant at Vallejo, Cal., and was active in the public interests of that town.

He was a delegate to the first Republican County Convention and to the first State Convention of that party in California, and made the only Republican speech at Vallejo during the campaign. His politics having caused him serious business losses he sold his interests and removed to Diablo Valley, where he began farm life. In 1858 he was elected justice of the peace and associate justice of the Court of Sessions; was a member of the Republican State Convention of 1860, and Oct., 1862, was appointed assessor of internal revenue for Contra Costa County, holding the position for four years.

On November 1, 1874, he sold his farm and removed with his family to Clayton, Cal., and in 1875 to Oakland, Cal., where he engaged in the real estate business. In 1882 Mr. Wetmore retired and returned to his farm near Clayton, where he spent his declining years. His most characteristic traits were his unswerving and uncompromising devotion to principle, his high ideals and public spirit.

870 Reverend SIMON JAMES⁸ HUMPHREY, D. D. (Rebecca⁷

Brewster, Simon[6], Simon[5], Benjamin[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at Millbury, Mass., April 18, 1854, SUSAN E., daughter of John BATCHELLER of Millbury, and widow of Horace HUTCHINSON. She was born at Sutton, Mass., February, 1824; died at Newark, Ohio, August 30, 1860. Married second, at Rockford, Ill., October 9, 1865, ELIZABETH, daughter of Professor Ralph EMERSON, D. D., of Andover (Mass.) Theological Seminary, and wife, Eliza (Rockwell), born at Andover, February 15, 1836. He died at Clifton Springs, N. Y., April 22, 1906.

At the age of seventeen years Simon J. Humphrey went to Rochester, N. Y., where he was employed in a wholesale grocery house four and a half years. He then decided to enter the ministry; fitted at Oberlin (Ohio) College in 1842-43, and was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1848. Working his way, he taught school during the winters, and a year in Pinkerton Academy at Derry, N. H.; was graduated from Andover Theological Seminary in 1852, and preached six months at Jamaica Plain, a suburb of Boston, during which time the Congregational Church there was organized. He was ordained pastor over the Second Presbyterian Church of Newark, Ohio, March 18, 1854, where he spent seven years. He was then called to the First Congregational Church at Beloit, Wis., where he remained until 1864, and then entered upon what proved his great life-work, as district secretary for the Interior States of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and retired in 1893, after twenty-nine years of successful service with them.

"Dr. Humphrey," says The Advance, "possesses rare literary taste and felicity of expression, and during all these years his pen has been a busy one. Thirty-three numbers of Missionary Papers, first issued as supplements to The Advance, were prepared by him and attained a circulation of nearly a million copies. Various leaflets, among them The Story of the Bees and For His Sake, have a circulation of about 200,000 copies. He has also published a delightful volume of missionary sketches, Eshcol, or Surprising Triumphs of Grace in Missionary Lands. Several series of articles have attracted attention, among them Facts and Fancies of Travel, published after his European tour, and the series entitled Jesus and the Sages, growing out of the Parliament of Religions at the Columbian Exposition, also The Pathology of Unbelief and the Way Out, and two years of weekly notes on the International Sabbath School Lessons."

In addition to the literary work previously noted, Dr. Humphrey spent the evening of his day in collecting the aftermath of the labors of his pen of the last twelve years into a number of volumes. The titles of a few of his latest works are: The Testimony of the Editions, The More Abundant Life, The Power of Prayer in Common Things, and Studies in the Life of Jesus.

Mrs. Elizabeth Humphrey was a professor in Rockford Seminary previous to her marriage.

Dr. and Mrs. Humphrey resided at Oak Park, Ill., for thirty-five years, and in 1900 removed to Clifton Springs, N. Y.

871 Honorable HENRY BREWSTER[8] STANTON (Susan[7] Brewster, Simon[6], Simon[5], Benjamin[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at Johnstown, N. Y., May 11, 1840, ELIZABETH, daughter of Honorable Daniel and Margaret (Livingston) CADY of New York State, born November 12, 1815; died at New York City. October 26, 1902. He died at New York City, Jan. 14, 1887.

"A little red schoolhouse in Pachaug (Griswold) and a rickety academy in Jewett City, Conn., furnished Mr. Stanton his education before he entered public life. . . .

"Henry Brewster Stanton was one of the early anti-slavery agitators and won many honors in journalism. He became one of the most effective platform orators who defended human rights in the great controversy preceding the war, and in 1834, at the anniversary in this city [New York] of the American Anti-Slavery Society, of which he was secretary, he faced the first of the two hundred mobs he battled against in his devotion to the cause of freedom. As a public speaker he was ranked with Wendell Phillips, but his taste for politics early drew him into the Liberty party. He took sides with the Democracy in New York local contests at this period, but was an ardent Republican when the issue of slavery and secession became paramount in National affairs. In the early anti-slavery contest Mr. Stanton spoke for the relief of the oppressed in the principal cities of England, Scotland, Ireland and France. He was a member of the Free Soil party and served in the Massachusetts Senate for two terms. He was also a member of the New York Senate in 1850. He helped to launch the Republican party in 1855, and took the stump for Governor Seward. In 1847 he made his home at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and being admitted to the bar there, soon acquired a reputation as a successful lawyer in patent cases. He did a great deal of valuable work on newspapers. He wrote for the Tribune when Mr. Greeley was its editor, and subsequently for the Sun, with which he had a close connection up to the time of his death. He published a book called Sketches of Reforms and Reformers in Great Britain and Ireland, after his trip to Europe in the forties. His autobiography was engaging his attention when his fatal illness began."—New York Tribune.

Mr. Stanton's wife, Elizabeth (Cady) Stanton, was the celebrated lecturer and president of the National Woman Suffrage Association. She was co-author with Susan B. Anthony of The History of Woman Suffrage, or History of the Progress of Women, and was the author of other publications. Her father was a distinguished lawyer, judge and congressman in New York State.

"If the intellect of Elizabeth Cady Stanton had been possessed by a man he would have had a seat on the Supreme Bench or in the Senate of the United States. . . . In intellectual power she was a peer among men and unequaled among women. . . . In personal life Mrs. Stanton was the calmest, sunniest and most evenly poised of mortals, with an unfailing fund of humor that made her a most delightful companion. She possessed a fine philosophy, which enabled her to bear with fortitude the heaviest blows and keenest disappointments."—Ida Huster Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton's last residence was at New York City.

881 Reverend ELIAS BREWSTER[8] HILLARD (Pattie[7] Brewster, Elias[6], Simon[5], Benjamin[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at Cleveland, Ohio, September 10, 1855, JULIA, daughter of Frederick and Eliza (Burrell) WHITTLESEY of Cleveland, born at Elyria, Ohio, January 24, 1835; died at Farmington, Conn., February 19, 1899. He died at Farmington, March 1, 1895.

Elias B. Hillard prepared for college at Bacon Academy, Colchester, Conn., and was graduated from Yale College in 1848. Having completed his theological studies at Yale (1851) and Andover (1853) Seminaries, Mr. Hillard offered himself for the home missionary service, and from the Home Missionary Society received appointment to California, at that time a new and distant field. But the society, falling just then into straitened financial circumstances, was unable to send him, and he became pastor of the Congregational Church at Hadlyme, where he labored from 1855-60. His other pastorates were successively at Kensington from 1860-67, at South Glastonbury from 1867-69, at Plymouth from 1869-89, and at Conway, Mass., from 1889-93. Thirty-eight years in all he exercised the ministry of the gospel, and with his whole heart, with burning zeal, and the enlistment of every faculty of his being.

885 JAMES BENJAMIN[8] BREWSTER (James[7], Joseph[6], Simon[5], Benjamin[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at New Haven, Conn., in 1840, AMELIA, daughter of Nehemiah and Temperance (Spencer) CARRINGTON of New Haven, born there, in 1819, and died in 1893. He died at New York City, March 9, 1902.

James B. Brewster founded the house of J. B. Brewster and Company, which, at the time of his death, was the oldest carriage establishment in America. Mr. Brewster first engaged with his father in the manufacture of carriages at New Haven. In 1827 a branch house was opened in New York City, where the stock exchange now stands, and in 1838 he became his father's successor. In 1842 his father again joined him in business and the firm name became James Brewster and Son. In 1848 his brother Henry was made a member of the firm, but retired in 1856, and James B. Brewster, with his father, continued under the name of James Brewster and Son. In 1870 this firm was incorporated with James B. Brewster as president.

Mr. Brewster was president of the Flushing Railroad Company for many years, and was a director of the Fifth National Bank of New York City.

886 Reverend JOSEPH[8] BREWSTER (James[7], Joseph[6], Simon[5], Benjamin[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at New Haven, Conn., September 8, 1847, SARAH JANE, daughter of Chauncey and Letitia (Lockwood) BUNCE of Westville, born there, August 14, 1823; died at Mt. Carmel, Conn., Nov. 17, 1866; married second, August, 1875, MARY (KANE) GIBBS, a widow, who died in 1879. He died at Brooklyn, N. Y., November 20, 1895.

Joseph Brewster was graduated from Yale College in 1842, and the following year he was tutor in the family of Senator Rives of Virginia. Being led to study the position of the Episcopal Church he entered its ministry, studying in the General Theological Seminary at New York City, and at Hartford, Conn., with Dr. Burgess, later the bishop of Maine. He was first settled at Windham, Conn., and then at Wallingford, Conn. In 1854 he returned to his native city, New Haven, to become rector of Christ Church, where he continued for twenty-eight years. At the beginning of his rectorship it was a small mission church, but under his charge it grew to be a strong and independent parish, a new church building was erected, missions were established, etc. Owing to ill health he resigned in 1882, but officiated in various churches in Connecticut, Baltimore and Brooklyn, until, in 1894, he became the rector of Saint Michael's Church, Brooklyn, where he ministered with remarkable success and continued in active duty until within two days of his death.

The Reverend Joseph Brewster was a man of scholarly tastes, a forceful and earnest preacher, most impressive in his rendering of the services of the church, socially very charming, with great personal magnetism, brilliant wit, and a keen knowledge both of books and men.

Children, i-ii born at Windham, iii Wallingford, iv-vii New Haven:

Hartford, Conn.

Chauncey Bunce Brewster was educated at the Hopkins Grammar School and Yale College, where he was graduated in 1868, with honors, being class orator; was tutor at Yale in 1870, and was graduated from Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn., in 1872, in which year he was ordained deacon by Bishop Williams. He served that year as assistant minister at Saint Andrew's Church, Meriden, Conn.; advanced to the priesthood by Bishop Williams in 1873; was rector of Christ Church, Rye, N. Y., 1873-81; Christ Church, Detroit, Mich., 1882-85; Grace Church, Baltimore, 1885-88, and Grace Church, Brooklyn Heights, 1888-97. He was consecrated bishop coadjutor of Connecticut, Oct. 28, 1897, and became the bishop of Connecticut, Feb. 7, 1899.

Bishop Brewster received the degree of D. D. from Trinity College, Yale and Wesleyan Universities. He is the author of three books: The Key of Life, Aspects of Revelation, and The Catholic Ideal of the Church, also articles in Reviews.

John Vance Cheney received an academic education; studied law, was admitted to the bar, and practiced his profession in New York City until 1876, when he removed to California. In 1887 he was appointed librarian of the San Francisco Public Library, and in 1894 became librarian of the Newberry Library, Chicago, Ill. He has contributed to the principal magazines, also has written numerous essays on literary subjects, and is the author of several books.

Mrs. Cheney was educated in music at Leipsic, Germany, and is prominent in musical circles. She is principal of the School of Life and Expression—the new education in music, oratory, dramatic art, and physical culture—at Chicago, and she is the originator of the cure "Philosophy of Ourselves," a purely mental treatment for nervous diseases, which does not dispense with the physician's service. She is a woman of fine presence, pleasing personality, and great repose.

"Culture and refinement center in their home, where music, poetry and art, combined with a kindliness of heart, lend a gracious charm to their 'At Homes.'"

* Elisha T. Cushman was a descendant of Robert Cushman, a Pilgrim.

He attended the State Normal Art School, Boston, Mass., 1877-81, and the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Paris, France, 1881-84. While studying at the latter school he won the first prize ever awarded an American by that institution. During the third year he modeled a statue of "David before the Combat," which was shown in the Salon, and attracted the favorable attention of the artists and critics. This "David" was in bronze at the Chicago World's Fair. He returned to this country in 1884, and during the first year worked with Mr. J. Q. A. Ward of New York City, on his statue of President Garfield. During his second year, Mr. Brewster became connected with the Art Students' League, and to him was given the important task of starting the first modeling class in its history. In 1891 he received the commission for the statue of Liberty for crowning the State Soldiers' and Sailors' monument at Indianapolis, Ind., and in the competition for the astragals on the same monument he won three. He was unanimously chosen from among four competitors to build the Soldiers' monument at Malden, Mass., spent three years on the Cuyahoga County Soldiers' and Sailors' monument at Cleveland, Ohio, designed and executed the Soldiers' monument at Athens, Pa., and his work is famous throughout the country.

Charles B. Benedict received an academic education, and in early life taught school and worked a farm. In 1849 and later he traveled for an insurance company, and was justice of the peace, 1853-60. He studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1857, and in 1859 engaged in the banking business, in which he continued for more than forty years. He organized and was president of the Attica (N. Y.) National Bank, also the Bank of Attica and the First National Bank of Moorhead, Minn.

Mr. Benedict served as a member of the Wyoming County Board of Supervisors, 1869-76, part of which time he was chairman of the board; was a member of the Democratic State Committee in 1875, a presidential elector in 1876, and was elected a representative from New York to the Forty-fifth Congress.

His land holdings in Minnesota and North Dakota were very extensive. Clay County, Minnesota, owes much to him for its present fine state of cultivation, and he did much to develop Moorhead, the county seat. Many of the finest farms in Clay County were worked by him, and he was known as the largest wheat producer in the county.

1112 MINERVA CLARISSA[9] BREWSTER (Jonathan[8], Jonathan[7], Jonathan[6], Jonathan[5], Daniel[4], Benjamin[3], Jonathan[2], William[1]), married at Northampton, Mass., November 18, 1856, Reverend HIRAM BINGHAM, son of Reverend Hiram and Sybil (Moseley) Bingham of Westfield, Mass., born at Honolulu, Hawaii, August 16, 1831. She died at Honolulu, November 17, 1903.

Hiram Bingham was fitted for college in Williston Seminary at Easthampton, Mass.; graduated from Yale College in 1853; studied theology in Andover Seminary, and was ordained by the Congregationalists, Nov. 9, 1856. He and his wife sailed from Boston, Mass., Dec. 2, 1856, for Micronesia, and landed at Apaiang, Gilbert Islands, Nov. 18, 1857, as pioneer missionaries. Dr. Bingham was engaged in literary and evangelistic work for the Gilbert Islanders, spending a part of the time in the Gilbert Islands and part in Honolulu until 1875, when he located at Honolulu, where he and Mrs. Bingham continued their labors as missionaries.

During Dr. Bingham's prolonged missionary life he reduced to writing the Gilbertese language, prepared a grammar of the same. and a Gilbertese-English Dictionary of about 11,000 words; translated the entire Bible into Gilbertese and carried it through the press of the American Bible Society; wrote a Gilbertese Bible Dictionary; compiled a Gilbertese Hymn and Tune Book, most of the hymns having been translated by him; edited a Gilbertese Commentary of the New Testament, and his last work is a revision of the Gilbertese Bible, which represents the eighth edition.

The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Yale and Western Reserve Colleges in 1893, and by Oahu College, at Honolulu, in 1897.

Minerva Clarissa Brewster was educated in Williston Seminary, and she, as well as her husband, was a benefactor of humanity. The following is an extract from her obituary:

"The announcement of the death of Mrs. Hiram Bingham at Honolulu will recall to many minds a gracious, generously affectionate woman, and a missionary service distinguished for whole-heartedness, ability and early hardships. . . . Her renunciation carried Mrs. Bingham all the way to Micronesia, and to barren savage Apaiang of the Gilbert Islands, where, for two years, she never saw the face of a white woman. . . . When compelled to leave the Gilberts, from her home in Honolulu she steadily pursued her aim by influential, practical efforts for her dear islanders. To say nothing of the assistance which she rendered her husband in his literary work, she prepared text books herself in Gilbertese—an arithmetic revised through five editions, a reader in seven editions, primary geography, higher geographay, brief notes on Job, and Bible readings—to help the Gilbertese women in their prayer meetings. Some of the proofsheets were read as the nurse held them before her eyes. . . . She had been a strength to the Union Church [Honolulu], and ten years president of the Woman's Board of Missions for the Pacific Islands."

ii CHARLES CLARK, b. June 14, 1830; d. at Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 1, 1908; m. at Golden, Colo., May 22, 1878, Rebecca Jeannette, dau. of Hezekiah Smith * and Jeannette (Van Benschoten) Darrow of Jefferson County, N. Y., b. at Orland, Ind., June 27, 1852. Residence Denver, Colo.

In 1850 Charles Clark Welch went to California, and for two years he followed placer mining and was part owner of the first quartz mill erected in that State. In June, 1852, he sailed for Australia, and after a voyage of seventy days arrived at Sydney, and for one year engaged successfully in mining operations in New South Wales. He then sailed from Melbourne, and after a voyage of ninety days arrived at New York.

"In the spring of 1860 he crossed the plains in the first tri-weekly coach for Colorado; located in Gilpin County and again engaged in placer mining, employing a large number of men. In 1870 he was one of the projectors and builders of the Colorado Central Railroad, the first narrow gauge railroad to enter the Rocky Mountains, and after its completion was the first vice president and held the office for many years. He was also a director in the Santa Fe Railroad. In 1878 he opened a large coal mine in Boulder County, Colo., known as the 'Welch Coal Mine,' which he operated successfully for several years, then sold the property to Jay Gould of New York, reserving a royal interest. He was also the owner and manager of large ranches in the sugar beet and wheat region of Larimer County, Colo., raising one year fifty thousand bushels of grain. In 1872 Mr. Welch was elected to the Territorial Legislature from Golden, Jefferson County, Colo., where he resided for many years. He filled that position with credit to himself and benefit to his constituents. He introduced the bill in the Legislature to establish the State School of Mines at Golden, and gave the ground upon which the first building was erected, and for ten years he served as a member of the Board of Trustees. The Colorado School of Mines is the leading institution of its kind in the United States, and was a gratifying reward to Mr. Welch for his faithful work in its behalf in the early days. It is scarcely possible that there is a man in Colorado whose varied business and industrial affairs cover a wider range, or who has been more active in developing the material interests of the State than Mr. Welch. Before the railroads were built he crossed the plains nineteen times in coaches and wagons, on business trips of various kinds."

1203 MARY MINERVA^{9} BREWSTER (John^{8}, Oliver^{7}, Wadsworth^{6}, Oliver^{5}, William^{4}, William^{3}. Love^{2}, William^{1}), married at Pittsfield, Mass., September 3. 1851, GEORGE HINMAN LAFLIN, son of Matthew and Henrietta Armenia (Hinman) Laflin of Canton, Conn., born there, January 19, 1828; died at Pittsfield. July 24, 1904. She died at Chicago, Ill., January 10, 1902.

George H. Laflin was a merchant at Chicago.

The following is an extract from Mrs. Laflin's obituary in Woman's Work for Woman:

"The words of the first psalm seem most appropriate to the life of Mrs. Laflin. for, planted by the water-side, she brought forth fruit from her girlhood on. . . . Her education was received at Pittsfield, where was then one of the best schools for girls in the country. Her erect and dignified bearing, even at sixteen was noticeable; the mass of dark brown hair which crowned her head and her bright face and brilliant color made her the pride of her class and, indeed, of the whole school. Mrs. Laflin completed her course of study at eighteen and was married at nineteen, after which her home was for the most part in Chicago. . . . One of Mrs. Laflin's most conspicuous gifts was the remarkable executive ability which she possessed. This not only made her a leader in all the forms of philanthropic work in which she was engaged, but also brought happiness to her family and made her home, whether in city or country, very attractive to the privileged visitor. In her beautiful summer home at Pittsfield she loved to gather her children and grandchildren about her, never forgetting, year by year, some of whom this visit would bring the greatest pleasure of the season. Her servants were selected with judgment and carefully trained, remaining many years in her employ, until they seemed a part of the family.

"In 1868 the Board of the Interior (now the Congregational Board, connected with the A. B. C. F. M.) was organized, with which the Presbyterians were then affiliated, and Mrs. Laflin was chosen recording secretary. She filled this office for two years, when the Board of the Northwest was organized, of which she was chosen one of the two corresponding secretaries. For years the Board had no office and no clerks, the secretaries doing all the writing, which occupied a good part of every-day life. We early learned to depend upon Mrs. Laflin's methodical ways and her clear, condensed style of writing, especially in the line of circular letters and annual reports. She resigned from the office of secretary in 1890, but remaining as one of our vice-presidents was ever a mainstay. Her labors on the Missionary Board by no means exhausted her splendid energy. For thirty years she was a leading spirit in the Home for the Friendless, not neglecting, either, the claims of her own church, the First Presbyterian. Notwithstanding the prominence always awarded her by reason of her ability, she still retained a timidity which made her shrink from taking part in any meeting except as her strong sense of duty urged it upon her. Her whole life, indeed, was an unwavering allegiance to duty."

1214 JOHN KINNEY[9] BREWSTER (Oliver[8], Joseph[7], Wadsworth[6], Oliver[5], William[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at Cortland, N. Y., October 11, 1838, HANNAH RICE KEEP, daughter of Joseph and Hannah STEDMAN, born at Cortland, May 27, 1814; died at Freeport, Ill., July 12, 1849; married second, at Freeport, March 31, 1851, EMILY LYDIA, daughter of Smith and Lydia JACKSON of Warren (now Manchester), N. H., born there, March 8, 1831; died at Canon City, Colo., October 23, 1899. He died at Canon City, March 16, 1904.

In 1839 John K. Brewster settled at Oneco, Ill., and in 1849 he became a resident of Freeport, Ill., and soon was ranked as one of its most successful citizens. He disposed of his interests at Freeport in 1870, and removed to Colorado that year and to Canon City, as a representative of the D. and R. G. Railroad Company to purchase land for its right-of-way, arriving November, 1870. On the termination of his connection with that company, he became the agent of the Central Colorado Improvement Company, which later became the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and in that capacity purchased a large amount of coal land in the county. He was instrumental in procuring for Canon City its present railroad facilities and, more than anyone else, was responsible for the inauguration of the movement to develop its coal resources.

Mr. Brewster was a devoted, conscientious adherent of the Presbyterian Church; was one of the charter members of that organization in Canon City, and active in all its benevolences and enterprises. He was one of the first elders and held that office continuously until his death. His eighty-seventh birthday anniversary was commemorated at the First Presbyterian Church, a large number of his friends taking part in the celebration. Elder Brewster, who was in his eighty-eighth year at his death, was probably the oldest man in Canon City, and had an acquaintance in Fremont County equaled by but few of its citizens.

1293 Reverend JAMES VANPELT[9] SCHOFIELD, D. D. (Almira[8] McAllister, Sarah[7] Brewster, Elisha[6], Elisha[5], William[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at Rochester, N. Y., July 14, 1854, CELESTIA JULIETTE, daughter of William and Mary (Baldwin) FRARY of Pulaski, N. Y., born at Evans, N. Y., March 23, 1828. He died at Saint Louis, Mo., May 18, 1898.

James V. Schofield attended Madison (N. Y.) University from 1848-50; entered the University of Rochester and was graduated from there with the degree of A. B., in 1852, and two years later graduated from the Theological Seminary of Rochester, with the degree of B. D., and took charge of his first church, at Louisville, Ky., where he was ordained and where he remained for four years. He then removed to Quincy, Ill., where he was pastor of a Baptist church for four years. In 1862 Dr. Schofield became pastor of the Third Baptist Church of St. Louis, Mo., which then had a membership of eighty, worshiping in a chapel. Guided by his faith and energy they moved into a handsome house of worship built by them. and when he resigned in 1869, to accept a call at Des Moines, Iowa, he left his church one of the leading powers of the city. His pastorate in St. Louis covered the most critical period of the city's history, yet during all those years of excitement and strife his congregation stood undivided, due to Dr. Schofield's tact and sympathy as a pastor. He enjoyed a successful pastorate in Des Moines, an unfinished church being completed and the debt removed. In 1871 Dr. Schofield accepted a call to the First Baptist Church of New Britain, Conn., and after four years, suffering from the climate, he returned to St. Louis and labored in the Fourth Baptist Church and in the establishment of an important mission. His last work was at Canton, Mo., where he performed the crowning labor of a life filled with good work, being then the oldest minister in active service in Missouri. During his pastorate a beautiful house of worship was built and here, as in every place where he lived, was felt a spiritual influence, a marked characteristic of his ministry, elevating the community to a higher plane of Christian charity and brotherhood.

Dr. Schofield was widely known throughout his denomination as a man of fine thought, impressive and eloquent. During his ministry he baptized over seven hundred persons.

The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by LaGrange of Missouri and by the University of Chicago in 1881.

1295 Lieutenant General JOHN McALLISTER[9] SCHOFIELD, U. S. A. (Caroline[8] McAllister, Sarah[7] Brewster, Elisha[6], Elisha[5], William[4], William[3], Love[2], William[1]), married first, at West Point, N. Y., June 17, 1857, HARRIET, daughter of Professor William Holmes Chambers* and Harriet (Whitehorne) BARTLETT of West Point, born at Newport, R. I., October 1, 1833; died at Washington, D. C., December 24, 1888; married second, at Keokuk, Iowa, June 18, 1891, GEORGIA WELLS, daughter of George Erskine and Augusta (Wells) KILBOURNE of Keokuk, born there, November 9, 1864. He died at St. Augustine, Fla., March 4, 1906, and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

John M. Schofield entered the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., June 1, 1849, and was graduated July 1, 1853, in the class with McPherson, Sill and Sheridan, who, like himself, afterwards became famous on the Union side in the Civil War. In that class, too, was General Thomas M. Vincent, his "beloved classmate," afterwards the able and energetic assistant to Secretary of War Stanton, while on the Confederate side the class was represented by General John B. Hood, Schofield's antagonist at Franklin in 1864.

Cadet Schofield was appointed brevet second lieutenant and promoted to second lieutenant and first lieutenant prior to the outbreak of the war. While holding the rank of second lieutenant he was assigned to duty at the Military Academy as assistant professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy, and on his promotion to first lieutenant was assigned as principal assistant professor of Philosophy at the Academy until August 28, 1860, when he accepted the chair of Physics in Washington University at Saint Louis, Mo.

In the Civil War, from beginning to end. General Schofield was at the front, taking advantage of every opportunity that presented to preserve the Union. He was chief of staff to General Lyon in the early operations in Missouri and in the battle of Wilson's Creek, August 10, 1861 (in which General Lyon was killed), and was awarded a Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry in the battle. He was appointed brigadier general of Volunteers November 21, 1861, and brigadier general of Missouri Militia on the same date, and was assigned to command the District of Missouri February 15th. In September, 1862, he organized the Army of the Frontier, driving Hindman out of Southwest Missouri and south of the Arkansas River.

In the latter part of 1862 and in 1863 he was assigned to important administrative and military commands. He had been appointed major general of Volunteers to date from November 29, 1862. but having incurred the enmity of some political generals his nomination was not confirmed. In May, 1863, however, President Lincoln reappointed him major general of Volunteers of the same date as his original appointment, and assigned him to command the Department of the Missouri. In January, 1864, he was sent to Knoxville to command the Department and Army of the Ohio.

On May 2, 1864, General Schofield joined General Sherman, and his army became the left wing of Sherman's army, and in the long and brilliant campaign that followed he was a trusted adviser of General Sherman and possessed his utmost confidence. He participated with his command and was conspicuous in all the engagements and operations of that ever memorable campaign ending in the capture of Atlanta, Georgia.

When General Sherman started on his "March to the Sea" he left General Schofield with his command to help General Thomas "take care of Hood" in Tennessee. General Schofield was then in immediate command of the troops opposed to Hood, General Thomas being at Nashville organizing and concentrating his command. When Hood crossed the Tennessee and advanced towards Nashville, General Schofield with a greatly inferior force retarded his advance by skillful maneuvering from the 24th to the 30th of November, 1864, when was fought the decisive battle of Franklin, in which Hood was badly defeated. For this battle General Schofield was promoted to brigadier general and to brevet major general in the Regular Army. On December 15th and 16th, having joined General Thomas, he commanded his corps in the battle of Nashville and the subsequent pursuit of Hood.

In January, 1865, General Schofield with his command was transferred to North Carolina. On February 28th he assumed command of the Department of North Carolina and the Army of the Ohio. Operations were at once begun, resulting in the capture of Fort Anderson February 19th, Wilmington February 22d, battle of Kinston March 8th-10th, and the march to Goldsboro, where he united with General Sherman March 22d, and was present with him in the second interview with General Joseph E. Johnston, when he surrendered at Durham Station, North Carolina, March 22, 1865, General Schofield being entrusted with the execution of the military convention of capitulation.

In June, 1865, General Schofield was sent on a delicate and important secret mission to France in connection with the peaceful evacuation of Mexico by the French.

Under the Reconstruction Laws he commanded the First Military District (Virginia).

From June 1, 1868, to March 10, 1869, he was Secretary of War under President Johnson and President Grant. and was appointed major general, U. S. Army, March 4, 1869, and commanded several important military divisions and departments until August, 1888, when, on the death of General Sheridan, he was appointed to command the Army of the United States. He was appointed lieutenant general of the United States Army February 5, 1895, and having reached the age of sixty-four years was retired September 29, 1895. By special act of Congress he was created a lieutenant general, being the sixth to hold rank above major general—Washington. Scott, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Schofield.

Although retired when war with Spain was declared, he organized a reserve brigade, ready for service should occasion demand.

General Schofield was noted as a teacher, a soldier, a diplomat and a statesman. His knowledge while varied was profound, and he patriotically served his country with marked distinction for nearly half a century and during a most momentous epoch.

He served as commander-in-chief of the Loyal Legion for two terms, and was a member of the George Washington Post of the Grand Army of the Republic at New York City.

In 1897 he published his memoirs. Forty-Six Years in the Army.

He died at Beloit, March 11, 1907.

Clinton Babbitt was educated in Keene (N. H.) Academy. Removing to Beloit in early manhood, he became a member of the first City Council, as alderman, in 1853. He served as postmaster of Beloit from 1886-90, and was a member of the 52d Congress from the First District of Wisconsin. He was known throughout the State as a breeder of blooded stock and interested in improving the industry of agriculture, serving as secretary of the State Agricultural Society from 1885-90.

A short sketch does not suffice to show the amplitude of Mr. Babbitt's life. It consisted more in what he was than what he did, more in influence than in offices, more than is usual in "little unremembered acts of kindness and of love." During his long life he was a careful student of public men and measures. He was a powerful influence in his city, county, and State, and the trusted counselor of political leaders. His home was open daily to wanderers or to notables, and around his board met the great democracy of mankind. When he died the city mourned, the city's flag went to half-1362 AURILLA PHEBE[9] WELLMAN (James[8] Wellman, Alethea[7] Ripley, Lydia[6] Brewster, James[5], Jonathan[4], Wrestling[3], Love[2] William[1]), married at Cornish, N. H., January 1, 1851, as second wife, Doctor ALFRED HITCHCOCK, son of David and Hannah (Owen) Hitchcock of Westminster, Vt., born there, October 17, 1813; died at Fitchburg, Mass., March 30, 1874. She died at Fitchburg, November 28, 1862.

Alfred Hitchcock received the degrees of M. D. from Dartmouth College in 1838, and A. M. from Middlebury College in 1844. Beginning the practice of his profession at Ashby, Mass., he soon removed to Fitchburg, where his professional career was one of marked distinction. In the later years of his life Dr. Hitchcock was recognized as the leading surgeon in that section of Massachusetts. For a time he was an overseer of Harvard University. He had a fine literary taste and wrote not a little for the public, and he possessed varied and marked abilities. He served as a member of the Massachusetts Legislature for several terms, between 1847 and 1855, and was a member of the Executive Council under Governor John Albion Andrew, from 1862-64.

Mrs. Aurilla Wellman Hitchcock was educated in Lebanon (N. H.) Academy and in Kimball Union Academy at Meriden, N. H. She taught in a public school at Cornish, in a similar school at Meriden, in the Windsor (Vt.) High School, in Mrs. David Burr's Ladies' Seminary at Washington, D. C., in Francistown (N. H.) Academy, and was professor of Latin in Mount Holyoke Seminary from 1848-51, and during a part of the first year under the magic influence of the famous Mary Lyon. She was a woman of superior education, of large influence in all the circles in which she moved and was highly respected and beloved.

Children, born at Fitchburg:

i EDWARD WYMAN[10], b. Oct. 27, 1853; d. Sept. 11, 1864.

ii JAMES RIPLEY WELLMAN, b. July 3, 1857; m. at Springfield, Mass., May 23, 1883, Martha Wolcott, dau. of David Aiken and Abigail Wolcott (Ellsworth) Hall of Washington, D. C., b. there, Dec. 2, 1855; d. at Onteora, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1903.

Ripley Hitchcock, as he has signed his name since 1885, is an author, editor and critic. He was graduated from Harvard University, 1877, with degree of A. B.; located in New York City, 1879; traveled through Northern Mexico, the West and Northwest, 1882-83, as special correspondent of the New York Tribune; art critic of Tribune, 1882-90; literary adviser of D. Appleton & Company, 1890-1902, and now associated with Harper & Brothers. He is the author of Etching in America; The Madonna in Art, and several other books upon art subjects, and in the field of American history, The Louisiana Purchase and Building of the West, and The Lewis and Clark Expedition. Editor of The Art of the World Illustrated at the Columbian Exposition; The Story of the West series; Recollections—Richard Henry Stoddard; The Trail-makers, in 17 volumes, and other books and series. He has contributed to the Century, St. Nicholas, and many other periodicals, and has lectured upon art and literary subjects. He is a member of the American Historical Association and many societies and clubs. Mrs. Hitchcock was a descendant of Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth and of Colonial Governor Roger Wolcott, of Connecticut. Her poems appeared in the Century and Harper's magazines.

1363 Reverend JOSHUA WYMAN[9] WELLMAN, D. D. (James[8] Wellman, Alethea[7] Ripley, Lydia[6] Brewster, James[5], Jonathan[4], Wrestling[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at East Randolph (now Holbrook), Mass., October 24, 1854, ELLEN MARIA, daughter of Caleb Strong and Prudence Gardner (Durfee) HOLBROOK of East Randolph, born there, January 21, 1827.

Joshua W. Wellman was fitted for college in Kimball Union Academy at Meriden, N. H., from which he was graduated in 1842; entered Dartmouth College that year and was graduated in 1846. In the winter of 1838-39 he taught school at Hartford, Vt., and later, during his college course, at Upton and East Randolph, Mass. From 1846-49 he taught in Kimball Union Academy a part of each year, and in 1847 was for two terms principal of the academy at Rochester, Mass. Entering Andover Theological Seminary in 1847, he was graduated in 1850, and was a resident licentiate in the seminary for one year.

He was ordained to the Christian ministry and installed as pastor of the historic First Church at Derry, N. H., June 18, 1851, where he remained five years, and was pastor of Eliot Church at Newton, Mass., from June 11, 1856, to Oct. 23, 1873. Dr. Wellman's pastorate at Newton included the exciting period of the Civil War, and during the early part of the conflict he, with his brother-in-law, Dr. Alfred Hitchcock, visited the South and saw some of the horrors of the war, and although not commissioned, they did commendable work in caring for the sick and wounded. During his pastorate the church at Newton grew from a small membership to be one of the largest and most prominent of that denomination in Massachusetts. Upon leaving Newton, Dr. Wellman went to Malden, Mass., where he was installed as pastor of the ancient First Church March 25, 1874, and where he remained until May 6, 1883, since which time he has not been settled in any parish, but has preached in various localities while devoting much time to literary work.

Dr. Wellman was elected a corporate member of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions in 1867, and has been one of the managers of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society and a trustee of Philips Academy at Andover since 1870. For many years he was a director of the American College and Education Society and chairman of the Board of Directors of the Congregational Education Society. He was a leading advocate of the formation of the Congregational Club of Boston, of which he was an original member, and has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Ministerial Aid. He is a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society and a life member of the General Theological Library of Boston.

The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Olivet College in 1868, and by Dartmouth College in 1870.

Dr. Wellman is the author of The Church Polity and Pilgrims; Review of Sabbath Hymn and Tune Book; Our Nation Under the Government of God; Christianity and Our Civil Institutions; A Review of Dr. Allen's Biography of Jonathan Edwards, also various addresses and magazine articles. He made an argument before the Board of Visitors of Andover Theological Seminary on the famous Andover case, which was published in a volume called The Andover Case, and he prepared a second argument, which was published, called The Questions at Issue in the Andover Case.

Mrs. Wellman was educated in an academy at West Randolph, Wheaton Academy at Norton, Mass., and in Bradford (Mass.) Academy.

Malden, b. at Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 27, 1858. Res. Malden.

Upon completing his education at the Malden High School Edward W. Wellman accepted, in 1876, a position with a wholesale shoe firm in Boston, where he remained five years. In April, 1882, he entered the service of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society, at Boston, "where by earnest work, strict attention and business integrity he succeeded in meeting the demands of one of the most trying positions in the working of that large institution," being at the head of the department of the distribution of Sunday School literature throughout the country, and held the position until his death. "While so faithful in business duties and so patient under the perplexing calls of office and desk, Mr. Wellman was also faithful to the claims of friendship and the home; faithful to the many little calls from without, the spoken request, the unspoken wish; faithful to the deeper life of inward relationship; faithful to his Master into whose keeping he had given his life."

1364 FIDELIA^{9} WELLMAN (James^{8} Wellman, Alethea^{7} Ripley, Lydia^{6} Brewster, James^{5}, Jonathan^{4}, Wrestling^{3}, Love^{2}, William^{1}), married at Cornish, N. H., September 16, 1856, as first wife, Doctor HOMER OWEN HITCHCOCK, son of David and Hannah (Owen) Hitchcock of Westminster, Vt., born there, January 28, 1827; died at Kalamazoo, Mich., December 7, 1888. She died at Kalamazoo, December 8, 1874.

Homer O. Hitchcock fitted for college in Kimball Union Academy at Meriden, N. H.; attended Dartmouth College from 1846-49; then taught in Kimball Academy one year; returned to Dartmouth at close of the year and was graduated in 1851. In the fall of that year he became associate principal of Orford (N. H.) Academy, and the three following terms was its principal. He was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City; spent one year in Bellevue Hospital in the same city, and began the practice of his profession at Kalamazoo in 1856. Dr. Hitchcock became one of the most eminent physicians and surgeons in Michigan; was the organizer and first president of the State Board of Health; was for many years a member of the Board of Trustees of Olivet College, Michigan; was a faithful and liberal supporter of the Congregational Church, of which he was a member, and was highly esteemed as a man and citizen. He served in the Civil War as surgeon in the Virginia Campaign in 1861.

Mrs. Fidelia Wellman Hitchcock was educated in Kimball Union Academy and in Mrs. Ellis' Boarding School at Hanover, N. H. She was principal of the female department of the Literary Institute and Gymnasium at Pembroke, N. H., in 1846; teacher in a select school at Marlboro, N. H., 1847-48, and was preceptress in Bradford (Vt.) Academy from 1849-54. "As a teacher she had a peculiar power of winning both the high respect and the strong personal love of her pupils. Her influence over them was of the most lasting character, and her remembrance of them was equally lasting. . . . She was very sincere and free from all affectation and had a hearty contempt for all sham and pretense."

Children, born at Kalamazoo:

1395 Rear Admiral ROYAL BIRD[9] BRADFORD (Phillips[8] Bradford, William[7] Bradford, William[6] Bradford, Ezekiel[5] Bradford, Elizabeth[4] Brewster, Wrestling[3], Love[2], William[1]), married at Newport, R. I., May 26, 1875, HARRIET STANHOPE, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Stanhope) ENGS of Newport, born there, November 16, 1847.

They reside at Washington, D. C.

Royal B. Bradford is a naval officer, having attained the rank of rear admiral. He retired from active service July 22, 1906, under the statute requiring all naval officers to do so at the age of sixty-two years. At that time the leading service newspaper, The Army and Navy Journal, published substantially the following account of his services.

The transfer of Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford to the retired list of the U. S. Navy withdraws from active service an officer whose career has been characterized by rare ability, high professional zeal and constant usefulness.

As a midshipman at the Naval Academy, which he entered November 28, 1861, and from which he graduated number three in the class of 1865, consisting of 54 members, he served in the ships John Adams, Macedonian, Marion, America, Marblehead and Winnipeg, some of which cruised up and down the coast in search of Confederate cruisers.

In 1865-66 he served on board of the Swatara in the North Atlantic and West Indies as watch officer and engineer. In 1866 he also served in the Rhode Island, flagship of the North Atlantic Squadron, as watch officer. Was promoted to ensign December 1, 1866. He was attached to the Iroquois, Asiatic Station, 1867-69, as watch officer and navigator; promoted to master March 12, 1868; to lieutenant March 26, 1869. Served on board of the Delaware, flagship of the Asiatic Squadron, 1869-70. At the U. S. Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I., 1872-73, under instruction and as instructor. He commenced at this period to make a special study of electricity, chemistry, explosives and torpedo warfare, as applied to his profession, with the result that his services as a member of many technical boards and commissions were thenceforth in much demand. Attached to the Wabash and Franklin, flagships of the European Squadron, as watch officer and navigator, 1873-75. Instructor in Torpedo Warfare at the U. S. Torpedo Station, 1875-76. Executive officer of the Alliance, European Station, 1877-80. Promoted to lieutenant commander November 30, 1878. Instructor in Torpedo Warfare at the Torpedo Station, 1880-83. Executive officer of the Trenton, flagship of the Asiatic Squadron, 1883-85. The Trenton was the first man-of-war in the world to be lighted by electricity, which was done under his supervision. On special duty at Newport, R. I., 1885-87, organizing a department of electricity for naval purposes and preparing a book of new naval regulations. Served as the first inspector of naval electrical appliances. Was detailed as assistant to the chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, November 1, 1887. Promoted to commander March 26, 1889. Commanded the Bennington, 1891-93, taking part in the demonstration against Chili in 1892, and participating in the Columbus anniversary celebrations in Europe and the naval review at home. Was on duty in Washington as a member of the Board of Inspection and Survey and other technical boards, 1893-96. Commanded the Montgomery, North Atlantic Station, 1896-97.

He was appointed by President McKinley, September 7, 1897, chief of the Bureau of Equipment, Navy Department, with the relative rank of commodore. He resigned his commission as chief of bureau April 21, 1898, the day war was declared against Spain, and requested to be assigned to duty afloat. His resignation was not accepted and he was appealed to in writing by the Secretary of the Navy, on patriotic grounds and in the interests of the Government, to remain in charge of the Bureau of Equipment, thus foregoing the opportunity of possible distinction in command at sea. He served as chief of bureau during the Spanish War; supplied the fleet with coal and performed the other onerous duties of that position in time of a maritime war. In September, 1898, he was appointed, by President McKinley, naval attaché of the Paris Peace Commission. His testimony in connection with the value of the Philippine Archipelago for commercial and naval purposes forms part of the printed proceedings of that commission. Promoted to captain, and advanced to the rank of rear admiral while chief of bureau, March 3, 1899. Appointed a member of the General Board of War Plans, Admiral George Dewey, president, July, 1901. His appointment as chief of bureau terminating by law at the expiration of four years, in 1901, he was reappointed to that office for four years by President Roosevelt. During the entire period of holding the office of chief of bureau he was a member of the Naval Board on Construction, which board is responsible for the designs of ships of war. He resigned his commission as chief of Bureau of Equipment October 20, 1903, having held that office longer than any of his predecessors, and requested assignment to service afloat. Upon terminating his connection with the management of the affairs of the Navy Department he received very flattering letters of commendation from the President and Secretary of the Navy. Commanded the battleship Illinois from October, 1903, to November, 1904. Commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Training Squadron from November, 1904, to April, 1905. Commander of the Third Squadron, Atlantic Fleet, from April, 1905, to July, 1906.

" From the foregoing outline it will be seen that Admiral Bradford's professional career has been one of manifold activities, involving large responsibilities and requiring the broadest training and experience. It is a simple statement of the truth to say that he has proved equal to every task to which he has been assigned; that he has realized the highest ideals of the American Navy officer, and that the Service, which he has adorned, has been enriched by his example and influence."

All of Admiral Bradford's ancestors trace back to the early colonists of Massachusetts.

George Nelson Reynolds was graduated from Lewiston Falls (Me.) Academy in 1858. Later he accepted a clerkship with Stone, Bowman & Bliss, cloth commission merchants, New York City, and there received his business training, finally becoming the junior salesman.

He left this position in 1863 to become a volunteer aide in the Civil War, and joined the Army of the Tennessee the same year. Just preceding the capture of Atlanta, in 1864, he returned to New York City on sick leave, and, after having a severe attack of typhoid fever, he was too weak to return to the service. While regaining his strength he engaged in the life insurance business, intending to remain in it only a month, but, succeeding beyond his expectations, it became his life work. Mr. Reynolds next located at Milwaukee, Wis., as general agent for two states for the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, and, after five years' service there, he became the general agent for the State of Pennsylvania for the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company, with residence at Philadelphia. Concerning WRESTLING BREWSTER, the youngest son of Elder William, Governor Bradford says he "dyed a yonge man vnmaried" (see page 7). There is, however, a tradition that between 1627 and 1629 Wrestling Brewster settled where Portsmouth, N. H., now stands; in 1629 he bought land near the Portsmouth Plains; in 1630, married EMILA, daughter of Augustine STORY; had children—i JOHN, b. Jan. 20, 1631, ii LOVEE LUCRETIA, b. May 3, 1636, and that Wrestling was living in 1638.

The son, JOHN, married July 6, 1752, Mary, daughter of Roger Knight, Esq., and had an only son, John, who had issue, many of whose descendants settled in New Hampshire.

APPENDIX B

The problem, upon which numerous genealogists have been working for many years, concerning the parentage of the Reverend Nathaniel Brewster of Brookhaven, L. I., has not been solved. Were it not for the statement that he was "aged seventy years" when he died in 1690, therefore born in 1620, he might perhaps have been a son of Jonathan^2 Brewster (Elder William^{1}) and the wife who was buried at Leyden, Holland, May 10, 1619. See pages 11-12.

1 Reverend NATHANIEL^1 BREWSTER, B. D., married SARAH, daughter of Roger LUDLOW, "deputy governor of Massachusetts and Connecticut," and he died at Setucket, L. I., December 18, 1690, "aged seventy years." There is a tradition that Nathaniel Brewster married first, ABIGAIL REYNES (?), and that there were children of both wives.

The Rev. Nathaniel Brewster was graduated from Harvard University in 1642, the first class graduated at Harvard; went to England and settled at Abby in County Norfolk; received the degree of B. D. from Dublin University; returned to this country "after the restoration"; preached at the First Church in Boston in 1653, and settled at Brookhaven, L. I., in 1655.

Many of his descendants of the early generations settled in Suffolk and Orange counties, New York, and numerous descendants of the present generation are located in many sections of this country, especially in the States of New York and New Jersey.

Children (there may have been other children):

i JOHN^2.
ii TIMOTHY.
iii DANIEL.
} Survived their father.
